

Author has 5 Near-Death Experiences and is Available to Speak on "Hope For Chronic and Critical Illness - From Concept to Reality"

Everybody is touched at some point by chronic or critical illness, causing emotions to run high. How unprepared we are in word and attitude when it happens to us, a family member or friend. Nancy Kaltenberger has lived with a serious heart arrhythmia and it's deadly complications and has come to grips with the emotional and spiritual challenges.

Somis, CA (PRWEB) July 20, 2006 -- After five near death experiences, Nancy shares how her trust in the Lord moved from concept to reality through prayer and Scripture. She tells of her captivating journey, merging Biblical truth with real-life miracles. Her presentation is riveting. For believers and non-believers alike, "Hope..." is a story of God at work in adversity.

Nancy Kaltenberger worked in the corporate world for over 20 years, culminating as general manager of an automobile sales firm. Her professional background, communication and relational skills, her knowledge of the Bible and her walk with the Lord come together to make Nancy one of the most genuine, relevant, and dynamic speakers in the Christian arena today. She has written "Hope When the River Rages" available from www.LifeSongPublishers.com.

Nancy has three adult children and three grandchildren and resides in Loveland, Colorado.
